Conversational Urdu

Raising bilingual children is a challenging but extremely rewarding pursuit. Research has shown that bilingual children have more creative brains than those who know one language and are better at problem solving. Teaching children a native language is a wonderful way to keep them connected to their cultural heritage. The benefits of bilingualism are well-established. It's a gift you can give to your children. So, let's get started on how to teach Urdu to kids. Learning conversational Urdu will be a fun and interactive class where kids will build on or reinforce basic ways to communicate in Urdu through stories, songs, and games.

Martial Arts (Aikido)

Aikido, like most forms of martial arts, can be seen by outsiders as an aggressive way of life. However, this is far from truth. Aikido is a discipline that boosts several good aspects of a disciple's lifestyle and keeps him or her stable, both – mentally and physically. Aikido training emphasize proper breathing, balance, and posture. And regular training gradually builds endurance and strength. Also, the non-aggressive and non-competitive nature of Aikido can build self-confidence and self-esteem.

Woodworking

Welcome to Introduction to Woodworking! In this ECA students will work on identifying different types of common tools as well as reviewing safety procedures when working with wood. Students will be introduced to safety goggles, hammers, nails, screwdrivers, screws, and tape measures as well as more advanced tools for any returning students (like wood burners and saws). We will learn how to use tools safely and how to plan and carryout woodworking projects from beginning to end. We will be working on a variety of projects including a window garden box, a bird house, and a school improvement project to be determined by the students! Students will take home the projects they make and at the end of this class students will be able to identify a variety of tools and woodworking materials as well as the benefits and applications and safe use of each.
